Game-changing, client-driven eDiscovery solutions that actually make sense.

A photograph showing a close-up of a person's hands. One hand is holding a pen, poised as if about to write on a document. The other hand is resting on top of the pen. They are positioned over a stack of papers, which appear to be legal briefs or court documents. The lighting is dramatic, with strong shadows and highlights, creating a serious and focused atmosphere.

The current model of eDiscovery is broken.
We started by asking
Why.

What we came up with is simple, a partnership.
We did it by aligning our interests with yours.

Introducing Managed Solutions - this changes everything.

Everything you need.

We agree together on an allotment of storage, processing and project management hours – based on your specific needs. Then, you pay a single, repeatable monthly fee for everything. Simple.

No contract required.

There is no contract to lock you in. Use the service only when you need it. If you go over your data allotment, there is no penalty. We simply work with you to increase your bandwidth to where you need it.

Open door policy.

We don't charge you to bring in your data. We don't charge you to take out your data. Essentially, this means there is nothing to lose. We are trying to make this easy, because it really ought to be.

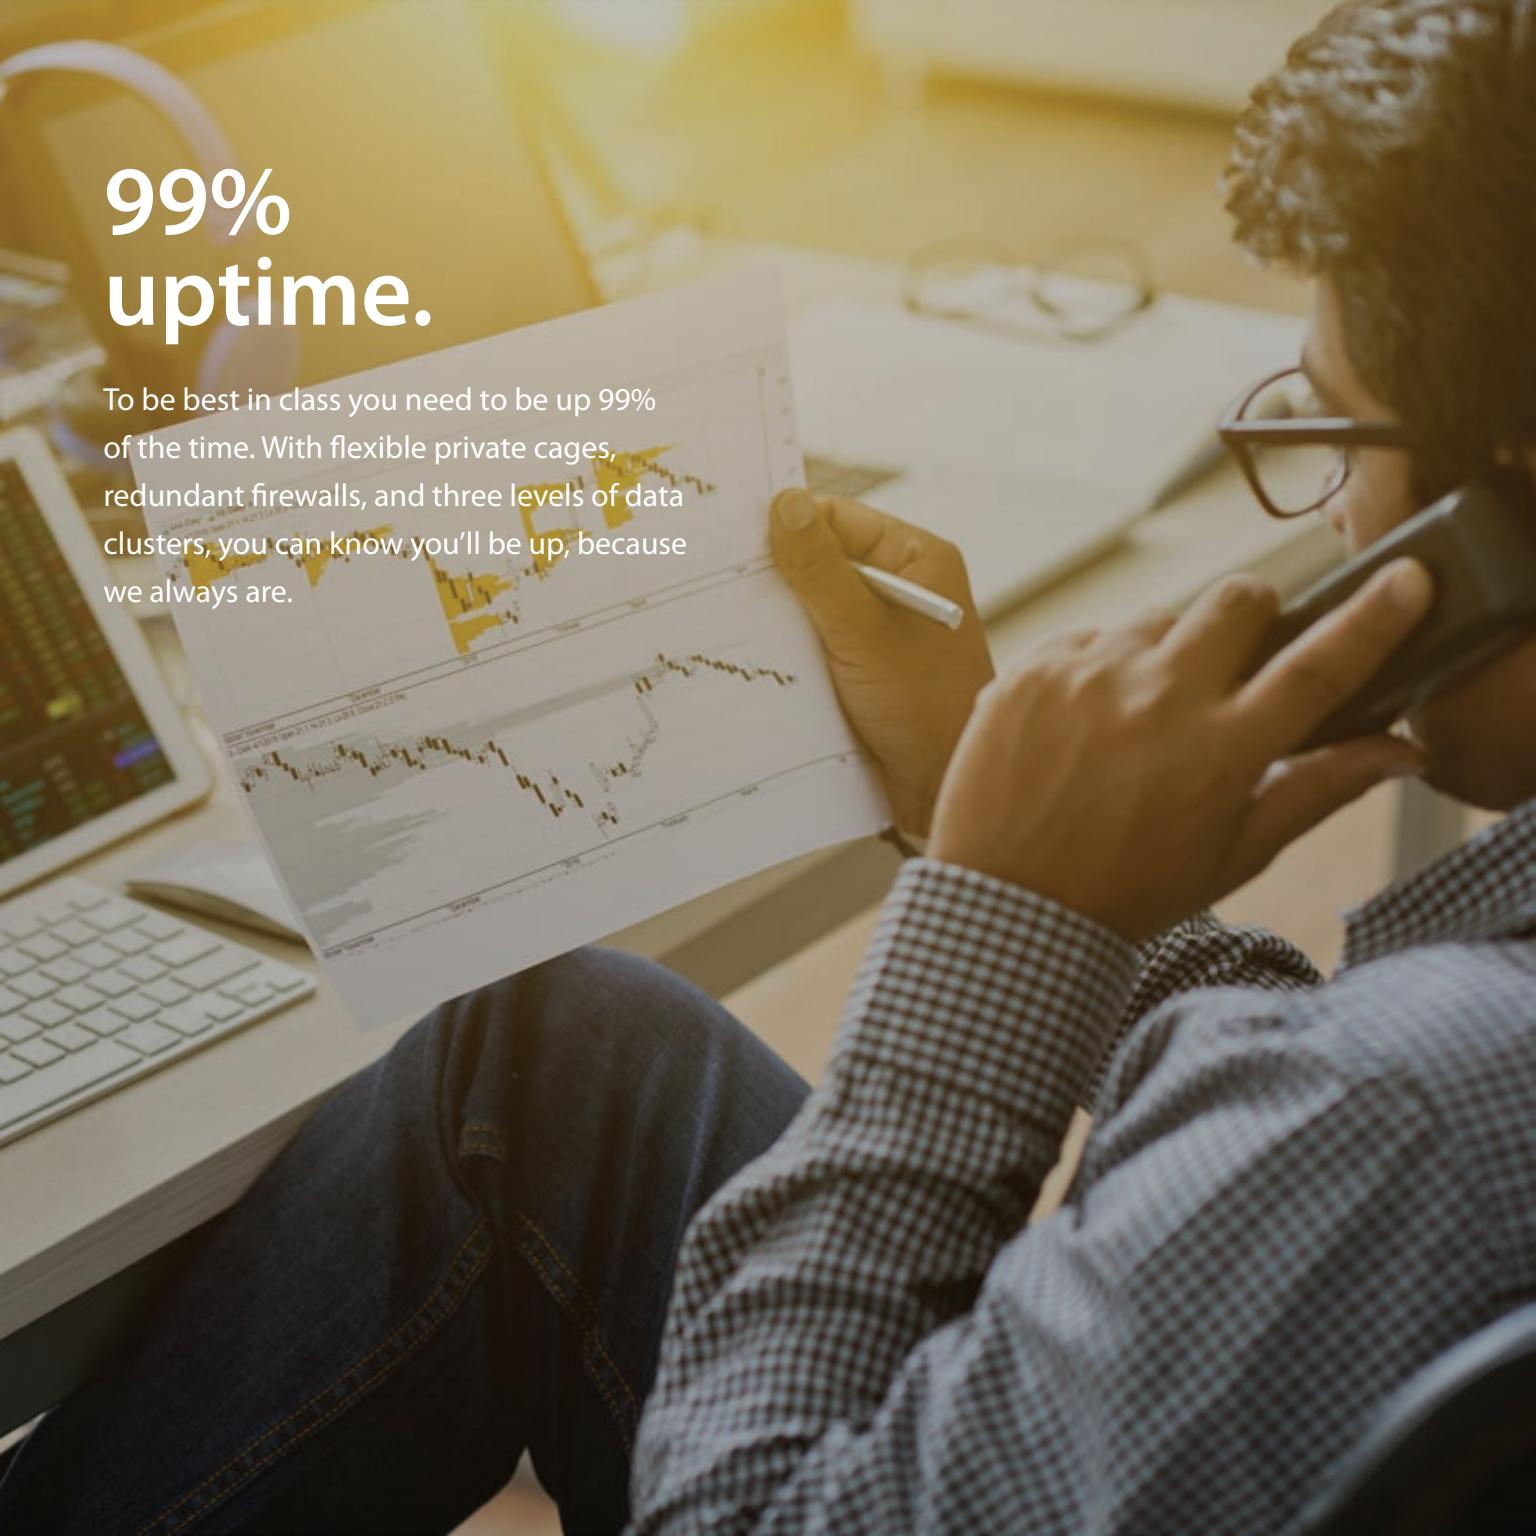

Priority support.

Dedicated support – never in a queue. We call it the Pod System. An expert from every department will be on your team. No requests to get shuffled between departments. Cut the clutter and get to the point. You can expect a response in minutes.

99% uptime.

To be best in class you need to be up 99% of the time. With flexible private cages, redundant firewalls, and three levels of data clusters, you can know you'll be up, because we always are.

What matters most? Entirely up to you.

Our project management starts with a thorough analysis of your needs. At the top of our list is identifying what matters most to you, even before we begin. This way you always get the outcome you want. Your primary driver is our prime directive. And once we have our marching orders, we follow them every step of the way.

Review.One

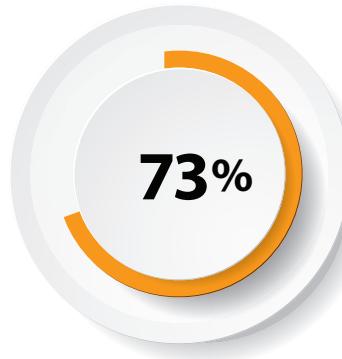

We differentiate ourselves through the quality of our work, a reputation for complete transparency and our total, complete focus on document review.

A blurred background image of a modern office interior. Several people are seated at long, light-colored wooden conference tables, working on laptops. The office has a high ceiling with a grid of recessed lighting. In the foreground, there are dark, curved office chairs. The overall atmosphere is professional and focused.

Efficient Managed Review is more critical than ever.

Why Review is so essential.

Over half of business executives cite the expense of reviewing large volumes of data as the top concern of document discovery. They have good reason, at over 73%, review represents far and away the largest driver of cost.

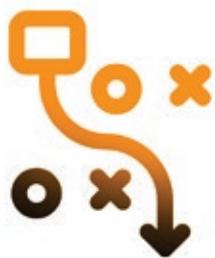

A professional photograph of two business people in a modern office. A man with glasses and a yellow tie sits at a desk, looking down at a document he is holding. A woman with long grey hair stands behind him, also looking at the same document. They appear to be discussing it. In the foreground, there's a computer monitor and some papers on the desk. Large windows in the background offer a view of a city skyline.

We continually refine our process with a relentless commitment to excellence.

Two kinds of smart.

Modern, efficient review requires the right combination of human and computer intelligence. We have the best of both. As your project progresses our engine only gets smarter — so you can get to a resolution faster.

Trust the process.

Our process has been refined for decades. We start with the right people and add in best practices, quality control, two tier review, and what you have is a proven, repeatable process that can be applied to any situation, anytime, anywhere.

Where do you need to be?

We have nine dedicated review centers in Atlanta, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, New York City, Oakland and Washington, D.C. We can come to you, or you can come to us. We make this simple.

Fully staffed, fully dedicated. Ready to go.
